

Sinclair Broadcasting has shown partisan activity during this President's term. First refusing to allow Koppel to read aloud the names of the dead American soldiers, (a salute to the families of the dead), now forcing its affiliates to air an obviously biased, most certainly unbalanced attack on a candidate just before the election.

Sinclair benefits by having an Administration that wants to allow expansion of large media companies, and appears to be working to make sure this Administration stays in office. Is this what our public airwaves are for? Entrenched power using its power to become even stronger? This is exactly the type of event that the FCC should be preventing: corporate control of our public airways.

As a citizen, I request that the FCC work toward making the public airways serve the public in a balanced way, and as the actions of Sinclair makes obvious, this can not be accomplished through large media conglomerates. Thank you.
